James, who explains the importance of having a positive relationship with the local community, says that many companies that come to the community have come with the idea of "just come for our commodities, that's all it takes, come and take away," and that's not the right way to go about it. He says that the right way to go about it is to have a relationship with the community, to have a relationship with the people, to have a relationship with the land, to have a relationship with the water, to have a relationship with the air, to have a relationship with the sun, to have a relationship with the moon, to have a relationship with the stars, to have a relationship with the earth, to have a relationship with the universe, to have a relationship with everything.
