

[illegible]

The authors emphasize that the use of a single measure of social capital is insufficient to capture the complex nature of social capital. They argue that the use of multiple measures is necessary to capture the different dimensions of social capital. They also argue that the use of multiple measures is necessary to capture the different dimensions of social capital.

© 2000 Blackwell Science Ltd, Journal of Internal Medicine 247: 369–375