

State of the State Address

January 1, 2019

Good evening, everyone. I am pleased to be with you tonight as we gather to hear my State of the State address. I want to thank you for your support and for the work you do every day to make our state a better place. I will be talking about the challenges we face and the opportunities we have to move forward.

Our State, Our Future

As we look back on the past year, I am proud of the progress we have made. We have passed several important bills, including the budget, the education bill, and the health care bill. We have also made significant investments in infrastructure and education.

But we still have a long way to go. We need to continue to work together to address the challenges we face and to build a brighter future for all of us.

One of the biggest challenges we face is the opioid crisis. It is a crisis that has claimed the lives of thousands of people and has caused immense pain and suffering. We need to take action now to address this crisis and to get our state back on track.

Another challenge we face is the budget. We need to make sure that we have enough money to pay for the services we need to provide to our citizens. We need to make sure that we are getting the most out of every dollar we spend.

Finally, we need to continue to invest in education. Education is the key to a better future, and we need to make sure that every child has access to a quality education. We need to make sure that we are giving our children the tools they need to succeed in the 21st century.

I am confident that we can overcome these challenges and build a better future for our state. I am confident that we can get our state back on track and that we can give our children the best possible start in life.

Thank you for your support and for your hard work. I look forward to working with you to make our state a better place for everyone.

Thank you, Governor.
